Marvelous New Speaking Movie to Show at McVicker's

Warner Brothers yesterday closed a deal for a long term lease on the famous McVickers Theatre, one of the oldest and best known playhouses of the middle west. The transaction, one of the largest loop theatre projects of recent years, was consummated in New York by Samuel Katz, of Balaban & Katz, and Warner Bros., who are the principal owners of the Vitaphone Corporation.

The transfer becomes effective September 12, when Warner Bros., will take possession of the theatre. The terms of the deal were not made public but it is said the new leasehold is for one year with an option of a renewal. Thus McVickers, for more than half century with the cultural life of the city, changes directorship as well as its policy.

This amazing instrument is the invention of the Western Electric Company, Chicago, and the Bell Telephone Laboratories, supplemented by the efforts of Warner Bros., and their technical and research departments. The instrument several years in the process of perfection, is a blending of the principles of the talking machine, the radio and the motion pictures, revitalizing the highest qualities of all three and effecting what is said to be a perfect synchronization of the human voice with the action of the motion picture.

According to the announcement, which was issued by Warner Bros., representatives who are here to take charge of theatre and formulate the new policy, the Vitaphone engineers will arrive here next Sunday to install the special apparatus, the equipment of which is said to cost upwards of $30,000. This dual machine, the movie-camera and the sound recording device, is much more elaborate and complicated than the common motion picture projection machine and its installation requires experts, men who have "lived" with its development and perfection.

For the opening attraction, the first performance of which is announced for Wednesday evening, September 15, Warner Bros., will present John Barrymore in "Don Juan", the great dramatic star's latest screen production. The Vitaphone prologue for the Barrymore picture will consist of a short address by Will R. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America; the New York Philharmonic Orchestra; Marion Talley, Anna Case and Martinelli of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mische Elman and Roy Smeck. The double opening, the introduction of the epochal development for the reproduction of the human voice and music and the premiere of America's foremost event in local theatricals and motion picture circles this season.

When Balaban and Katz turn over McVickers to Warner Bros., after the performance Sunday evening Sept. 12, a force of decorators, electricians, painters and cleaners will start in getting the theatre ready for the Vitaphone-Barrymore premiere. The new management will do over the famous playhouse from pit to dome. Aside from the vital change in the projection system required by the Vitaphone, the theatre will be completely redecorated and refurnished. Two performances will be given daily and all the seats will be reserved.

Mrs. Woerman of Neb., Sends Highly Interesting Letter

The News-Bulletin has been receiving so many pleasant letters of late on its attitude on law and order that we cannot resist to publish some of them and we especially take pleasure in printing the following letter from Mrs. Lewis H. Woerman of Oakland, Nebraska:

Oakland, Neb., Sept. 4, 1926
Editor News-Bulletin:

Often was the time I have been wanting to write to you to tell you how much we folks in Nebraska enjoy your paper every week. But of late haven't been getting it regular here; skips once every other week. Can't understand where it lands at because I know you sure print it. The reason we keep it is because its my parents home town and many are the relatives I have out there from Quincy up to Chicago. My parents used to live at Mokena and Tinley Park, then called Bremen. My mother's name was Mary Yunker, a sister of Christ Yunker who is gone to his heavenly home. She also has a brother Fred and step-brothers Henry and Nick. Her sisters now living are Mrs. John Hubenthal and Mrs. Lena Wolf and Mrs. Clinton all of Chicago and Mrs. Rosa Baumgartner of Tinley Park.

My father's name was William Bettenhausen. He still has two step brothers living, John and Conrad and Mrs. James Fulton of Tinley Park. Both of my parents have passed to the great beyond where there is no more grief or sorrow. What caused their early departure was the grief to lose their baby boy a twin, in the World War. They both lived to see this all thru and he was buried out there in France for a number of years. Then they sent him here to be buried in American soil. His body lay one week in the Legion Hall for those friends galore who wished to view his casket. One of these above mentioned days the undertaker upon request of my parents who wanted to see it was their boy, the casket was then opened and father and mother brothers and sisters viewed his already withered form. It was easy to know it was him by his teeth and name and where he was wounded by a shrapnel as described by the general. My parents now being satisfied it was their youngest boy. A twin brother Henry is now living on the home farm. After this viewing of him he was taken to the home of his parents and a funeral day observed as would had he died here. The grief being too much for my parents they both followed shortly after in death to be with him again in a more peaceful and happier home above. I have a little brother buried near Mokena and one sister and two other brothers born in Illinois.

My parents came to Nebraska in 1878 and settled in Cuming County. The seven other children were born in Nebraska of whom three have gone before to their eternal rest. I wish my parents could have kept your Mokena paper as they would have known three fourths of your people and oh how they could have enjoyed it!

Here of late we have been much interested about the Scheer farm raid, contents and people found. I hope none of my relation have been unlawful enough to visit such a place. I also agree with the News-Bulletin for law and order.

Probably some folks out there who know Fred Lehnert, Sr., who once lived near Mokena, will be surprised to hear he also has passed away. He died two weeks ago and was buried in Pierce County, Plainview, Neb. His wife died a few years ago.

I would like to tell you more about him but must write more yet Mr. Frederick Leudke who used to live out at Tinley Park and who has of late resided at West Point, Neb., died August 24th. He has a sister, Mrs. Jake Funk residing in Tinley Park. His wife is still living but has been an invalid for 3 years.

Well I am sure writing a long letter I am afraid, but just a little more. I must not forget to write you about our community. Our crops look good considering the dry year we have had. The corn will average 45 bushels or more per acre. Oats a load to an acre was the run.

Our town of Oakland is a great cattle feeding center. Some farmers have as high as 1500 to 2,000 head of cattle in feed. They buy their

New Subdivision To Be Opened At Orland Sept. 18

Orland will see one grand and glorious carnival, when on Sept. 18th the Carnival Co., will unfurl its tents and set up its Ferris wheel and other things of amusement. And this is all due to Mr. Nichols who will formally open up the New Orland subdivision in the beautiful and wooded 160 acres north of 143 St., and west of Kean Ave. In this wonderful natural garden spot, whose beauties have also inspired writers to put them to verse, the public will have an opportunity to share in the profits which are sure to come with the development of this section. Already wise investors have purchased lots, already basements are being excavated. Watch the News-Bulletin next week for further announcements. The merchants of Orland have decided to co-operate with Mr. Nichols and will make this a GRAND BOOSTER week for Orland, which has been lying dormant, but which will arise and soon the sound of hammers will resound, new houses will arise so to speak, out of the dust over night. Many will locate here around the lake which will be built. Watch this paper next week.

Famous Yodlers Coming to Frankfort

The Frankfort M. E. Church has made arrangements with the Starr Concert Company to put on a series of high class programs at the church this fall and winter, the opening number to be given by the Daddy Grobecker's Swiss Yodelers on Sept. 19th.

This company, composed of genuine Swiss Yodelers, is the only one of its kind on the American platform. They present a program of true Swiss mountain folklore, full of educational as well as entertainment features. "Daddy" Grobecker, as his people affectionately call him, is manager of the company.

The Yodelers appear in their picturesque Swiss mountain attire. They sing Swiss yodel songs in English translations secured by "Daddy" himself. Programs are given in German for German audiences.

Yodeling dates back to the days when the early inhabitants of the Alpine country, in their high mountainous abode, found it difficult to communicate with one another—but you must hear the whole story from "Daddy" himself in his own unique manner.

This Company has been heard and seen in Frankfort before and have made a very good impression. It is a highly commendable thing for the community to offer its young folks something wholesome and worth while.

corn from the elevator and haul it right out to their farm paying as high as 80 cents to $1 per bushel. They also feed their own corn. We have 100 head of hogs our own raise now. Sold all our old ones. Lots of farmers are having hog sickness among their hogs. We vaccinated our hogs when they were small. Our town of Oakland is the largest cattle shipping town in the world for its size. For the last 3 years this town took the record for the above mentioned. In 1924 they shipped 30,000 or over of cattle. Since May 1925 to December there has been over 300 carloads of shell corn shipped in and hauled out by farmers not over 7 miles around. They feed cattle only 90 days then ship and bring home some more to feed. At present many farmers are having hogs shipped in from counties which are dried out.

There sure is lots of building on here this summer. Many new homes, about 8 or more around in our vicinity right within about eight miles around. We have also built a big square house. My nephew Herman Hensel is putting up an entire new place.

Fruit has been plentiful this year.

Here is for luck and long may The News-Bulletin be published because it stands for law and order.

Am sending you check herewith for two years subscription to The News-Bulletin.

With greetings to all relatives and to you kind editor. A subscriber from Nebraska.

Mrs. Lewis H. Woerman.

MOKENA SCHOOL OPENS WITH 4 NEW TEACHERS

Vacation days are over and when the Mokena pupils came to school Tuesday morning they were greeted by four new teachers. There are 5 instructors in all, and only one of the teachers of last year was re-engaged for this term. The faculty is as follows: Principal, Clarence Youhl, Miss Evans high school department, Miss Hall upper grades, Mrs. Ferguson intermediate department (re-engaged) and Miss Thayer primary room.

Oak Lawn Teacher Invites Visitors

Wiley Simons, principal of the Oak Lawn standard school believes that folks should visit the public school and see what work the pupils and teachers are doing, hence the following subjoined interesting article on the subject:

If you will take the time some afternoon and visit the public school, the pleasure the visit will give you will be ample remuneration for the time and labor it costs.

There is something, to an adult, in a schoolroom full of pupils, all of them engaged in the study of their lessons, that causes old memories of fresher and more youthful days to throng a mind, perhaps too busily engaged with other cares, to appreciate and understand the growth of mind and development of reason that exists in the little men and women all about us, and it makes one feel as if "recess" had come, and the struggle for existence is entered upon with vigor. The bright faces occasionally cloud with a frown as some problem uprears a stubborn front. Then the laughing eye and glance of vigor are evidences of a more severe struggle that is to be faced by the mature mind of the same student. They are the transient reflections of our own daily struggles. It is only when one grows haggard with the cares of life, when passion and arvarice and envy have seared the soul and destroyed its freshness that a glimpse of past peace and ease is vouchsafed us in looking at and guarding the development of our little ones that they may more easily than we, overcome the laborious tasks that have bowed us.

And how much do we owe the teachers? Not money can measure accomplished good. Thanks are poor payment for overtaxed patience. We must have a deep and heartfelt appreciation of a never ending labor that does more for you and yours than you yourself can do—that is the only way the parent can repay the teacher.

The teacher does something besides setting tasks and hearing recitations. She trains the moral as well as the mental faculties. She curbs impatience and stimulates the laggard. She directs the mentally dull and leads the struggling senses into paths that enable weak reason to grow strong and resilient. She represses the baser.

When you hear over 100 voices singing "The Red, White and Blue" their faces alive with enthusiasm, their little bodies all athrill with patriotism, your eyes will suddenly be affected with a strange smarting, your vision will cloud, your heart quiver with an answering thrill, and you will feel that it is to the teachers in our public schools that we are indebted for a great, a glorious, and a patriotic people. You will leave the school refreshed and gladdened in the thought that, in the care of such as they, the future of our children is secure and safe. Come! Visit your school.

PALOS PARK

Chairman Andrew Ludwig, is still worrying about his dinner, which he has to serve at St. Michael's Hall Oct. 6th. The meetings are not progressing and do not settle Andrew's problems. At the last meeting one member, John, wanted lots of gravy, but when called on for the 'resapay' said it was something they put on meat. His brother then added that brandy poured on the meat made fine gravy. But Bill said he would quit if they wasted good brandy that way. Rev. Fr. Gorey then volunteered the information that in the Army, when the cooks mashed potatoes, they wore hob-nailed boots and Andrew is wondering why the "hob-nailed".

Al. and Ed. then volunteered as dishwashers, but when Andrew found that they intended washing the dishes and let'em dry themselves he refused!

The problem of waiters is also unsettled only three being selected so far. Pete Homering, Pete Hostert and Phillip Steffens. Andrew wants his waiters all one size, so would like some volunteers about the size of the ones above.

Andrew does not want to call on the ladies for help, but it would be very acceptable if any of them would report to him, just what their husbands might be useful at!

While in swimming with his family, Lou McCauley of the Worth Board of Education suddenly shot to the bottom of a ten foot hole while doing a fancy stunt. Lesson for September 12

GIFTS FOR THE TABERNACLE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 35:4-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—Honor the Lord with thy substance and of the firstfruits of thy increase.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Gifts for God's House.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Willing Gifts to God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Liberal Giving.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Generous and Systematic Giving.

I. What the Tabernacle Was.

It was a rectangular structure 80 cubits long, 10 cubits wide and 10 cubits high. This was divided into two rooms, the holy place and the holy of holies. The two rooms were separated by the veil. The tabernacle was within a court 100 cubits long and 50 cubits wide. Within the court, before the door of the tabernacle was situated the brazen altar. Between the altar of sacrifice and the door of the tabernacle was placed the laver. Inside of the holy place was found the candlestick and also the table of shewbread. Directly in front of the veil was found the altar of incense. The altar of incense was closely connected with the brazen altar in the contact of fire and blood. In the holy of holies was found the ark of the covenant, the most sacred object of the entire tabernacle. This ark contained the table of stone, the pot of manna and Aaron's rod that budded.

II. The Meaning of the Tabernacle.

The tabernacle was the symbol of God's dwelling place. This tabernacle typified the incarnation of God in Christ. John says that the Word became flesh and tabernacled among us (John 1:14). The furniture of the tabernacle, beginning with the brazen altar symbolizes the spiritual history of the worshiper, making clear the sinners' method of approach unto God. The position of the brazen altar at the door of the tabernacle indicated that no one could draw nigh to God without going by the way of that altar. The question of sin must be settled before man dares approach God. The laver typifies the sanctification of the believer. The sacrifice at the brazen altar signified atonement. The ablutions of the laver prefigured sanctification. Atonement was made by the sacrificial death of Christ. Sanctification was effected by the washing at the laver, prefiguring the influence of God's Word, His ordinances and the operation of the Holy Spirit. The candlestick, with its central shaft and its extending branches indicated the unity and diversity of God's people. The candlestick also shows the purpose of the sanctification of the believer, namely, to shine for God. The table of shewbread was for a memorial unto God of his chosen people, one loaf for each tribe. What the bread was for Israel, Jesus Christ is to the church. The altar of incense symbolized communion with God in worship. The putting of the blood from the brazen altar on the altar of incense shows that acceptable prayer rests on the ground of the atoning work of Christ. The veil symbolized the flesh of Christ. The rending of the veil at the time of Christ's crucifixion shows that the death of Christ gives access to God. The mercy seat upon which the blood of the sin offering was sprinkled indicates that the claim of God's law had been satisfied.

III. The Offerings of the Tabernacle.

1. The motive of giving (v. 5).
"Whosoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the Lord." Giving which meets God's approval must spring from the heart. The offering must not only be made of a willing mind but it must be as unto the Lord, an expression of love and godly fear.

2. Who had part in giving (v. 22).
"They came, both men and women." It was God's purpose from the beginning that women should unite in the support and care of the worship of God.

3. What was to be given (vv. 23-28).
Under this heading two interesting things stand out—measure and variety.

(1) Measure. They brought what they had to bring.

No one is under obligation to give that which he does not possess. Capacity is the measure of responsibility.

(2) Variety.
Some brought jewelry (v. 22); some brought gold (v. 22); some brought fine linen (v. 23); some brought goat's hair and rough skin (v. 23); wise-hearted women did spin with their hands (v. 25); the rulers brought the expensive things that were needed (v. 27). This shows what a variety of things are needed in the Lord's house.

Mrs. Cora Gorham and son left Friday morning for their home in St. Petersburg, Fla., after spending several weeks with her mother Mrs. Kate Cooper.

Rev. A.R. Mangus and Miss Holt of Bloomington spent the week end and Labor Day at the Elmer Cooper home. Rev. Mangus occupied the pulpit of his former charge, Mokena M.E. church Sunday night which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. W.N. Lathrop who underwent a serious operation in Silver Cross hospital last week is still very ill.

Mrs. M. Oestreich spent Labor Day with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Semmler and family.

Miss Marcie Liess and Waunita Oswald are spending their vacation in Colorado and will also visit with the former's father in Montana.

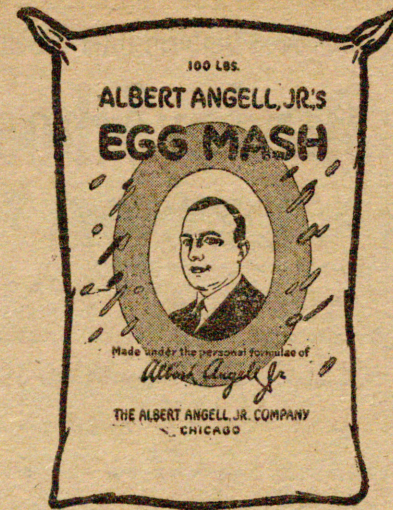

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Walsh and family are going to move in the Barnes house recently vacated by Otto Marquardt. Mrs. Walsh is a daughter of Mr. Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schmuhl of Joliet have returned from a several weeks trip by motor to Appleton and Crevits, Wis., Duluth Minn., thru Itasca Park and also a great portion of Iowa. They enjoyed the trip very much.

Mrs. Wm. Semmler and daughters visited Saturday with the Misses Helen and Minnie Eggers in Joliet. The latter has been confined to bed since June and is still the same patient sufferer as she was when living in Mokena. We wish her health and much of it.

Mrs. Walter Fisher and daughters Roslin and Lucille returned Tuesday from a delightful vacation at Saugatuck, Michigan.

A good sized crowd attended the Labor Day bazaar and dance of the St. Mary parish held at the Cappel Grove Monday afternoon and evening. A neat sum was netted for the parish. This was the 63rd anniversary of the parish.

His word is his bond!

A "personal guarantee" means very little to you. Unless you know the man who makes it.

Ninety per cent of the things bought for your home are selected by the lady member of the firm. She is the purchasing agent. Most men admit that she is a capable buyer, and the reason is this: She must be shown — convinced by proof — that an article is what she needs and is worth the price!

For that reason, she sees the advantage of dealing with a local merchant — a man whose "personal guarantee of satisfaction" means just what it says.

She knows that what he advertises in this paper is entitled to her consideration. Because she has confidence in her neighbor — the local dealer — she can safely invest the family funds in what he guarantees.

5¢ worth of ELECTRICITY

What a wonderful nickel's worth it is!

5¢ spent for electricity will run a washing machine for two hours.	5¢ spent for electricity will keep the refrigerator cold for eight hours.
5¢ spent for electricity will make a hot kitchen comfortable with an electric fan for ten hours.	5¢ spent for electricity will run a vacuum cleaner for three hours.
5¢ spent for electricity will run a sewing machine for seven hours.	5¢ spent for electricity will light your reading lamp for two long evenings.

The cost figures in this advertisement are based upon electricity at 10 cts. per kilowatt hour.

MOST of the good things of life cost much more than they did in 1914; electricity, the shining exception, actually costs no more. This is a record of which the electrical industry is justly proud. It means that you can use electricity very freely and still be very economical. It means that no American husband ought to allow his wife to waste time and energy in doing one single household task that electricity can do for a few cents an hour.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

WE are glad to reprint this advertisement because it pictures so clearly the economy of electrical conveniences . . . Your rates for general lighting service, as given below, are even less than the base rate used in this advertisement:

9 cents* net per kilowatt hour — for initial consumption in month.
8 cents net per kilowatt hour — for secondary consumption in month.
6 cents net per kilowatt hour — for all additional consumption in month.
*Except in five towns where the initial rate is 10c.

The Tom Richards family have moved to Orland where Mr. Richards has secured the position of "third trick man" on the Wabash railroad. Temporarily the Richards are staying at the Methodist parsonage and Mrs. Richards is keeping house for both families. Mrs. Setterlund is still confined to her bed.

We regret to note that Mr. Robert Murdock will soon leave our community but rejoice in the fact that he will continue his education at the University of Illinois.

Mrs. N. Neusser of Chicago has been a week end guest at the M. E. parsonage. Mrs. Neusser has been a professor at the University of Bucharest, Roumania and is both a friend and a tutor of the pastor and wife in French and German.

After the supper and social hour there will be a special program given in the auditorium that will be of interest to both members and friends of the church.

At 4:30 Chicago time, the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Orland charge will be held at the church on Sunday, September 19th with Dr.

E. G. Schutz, District Supt., presiding.

The pastor expects to leave for Pontiac on Wednesday, Sept. 15th to attend the sessions of the Central Illinois Conference, of which he is a member.

Watch for further announcements concerning the evening services. A most interesting series of discussions are in preparation. We expect to have as a feature of these services a brief piano recital each Sunday evening under the leadership of our younger people.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH
Rev. Wm. Gorey, Pastor

Rev. W. A. Gorey has been presented by friends with a new Overland Six—his Ford being sadly in need of a vacation.

The Holy Name Society is to be organized next Sunday. After beholding the magnificent spectacle of 230,000 Holy Name men at Soldier's Field, during the Eucharistic Congress, there is not a man of the parish who does not wish to join the society. This organization is for the purpose of promoting reverence for the name of Jesus and to encourage manly virtue among men.

Mrs. Cyril Anderson was baptized Saturday by Rev. W. A. Gorey.

The two day bazaar seems to be following in the footsteps of former bazaars in promising perfect success. The men, especially, who are to serve the dinner on the first night, are hard at it. They are busy experimenting on the relative values of such things as "Cream or milk in peas and potatoes"—and have decided, so they say, that "Cream is far more tasty." There may be no balance on hand after that dinner, but most emphatically, that complaint will not come from those who partake of it. Some of the women, who have been threatened with a fine if they even make a suggestion, have nevertheless sent word around that quite a neat sum might be cleared, if when the men are peeling potatoes, they charged five cents a peep. It is hoped that the men know that potato skins, indiscriminately dropped and with plenty of potato accompanying them, are not conducive to perfect serving. Also that vegetables, even as children, must be taught how rude it is to stare.

Important Announcement Long Distance Telephone Service Changes

[*Applying only to messages to points outside the State of Illinois]

Effective October 1, 1926

Reductions in Long Distance Rates

To points 150 miles or more distant the rates will be substantially reduced. The greater the distance, the greater the reduction. For example, from Mokena to Detroit the basic station-to-station rate will be $1.45 instead of $1.70; to Pittsburgh, $2.10 instead of $2.70; to New York, $3.45 instead of $4.70; to San Francisco, $8.25 instead of $11.90. A few rates for distances between 24 and 110 miles will be adjusted to make the schedule consistent throughout, but in these cases the increase of the basic station-to-station rate will be only five cents.

Reversed Charges on Station-to-Station Calls

Heretofore the reversal of charges has been available only on person-to-person calls. As a further convenience to the public this privilege will be extended to station-to-station calls where the rate is 25 cents or more.

Longer Reduced Rate Period on Station-to-Station Calls

Reduced rate hours for station-to-station calls will begin at 7 P. M. instead of 8:30 P. M. as formerly. Between 7 and 8:30 P. M. the discount will be approximately 25 per cent of the day station-to-station rates; 50 per cent of the day rates. These discounts will apply where the day station-to-station rate is 40 cents or more, with a minimum reduced rate of 35 cents. Because of the unsatisfactory service conditions which it brought about, the existing midnight discount will be discontinued.

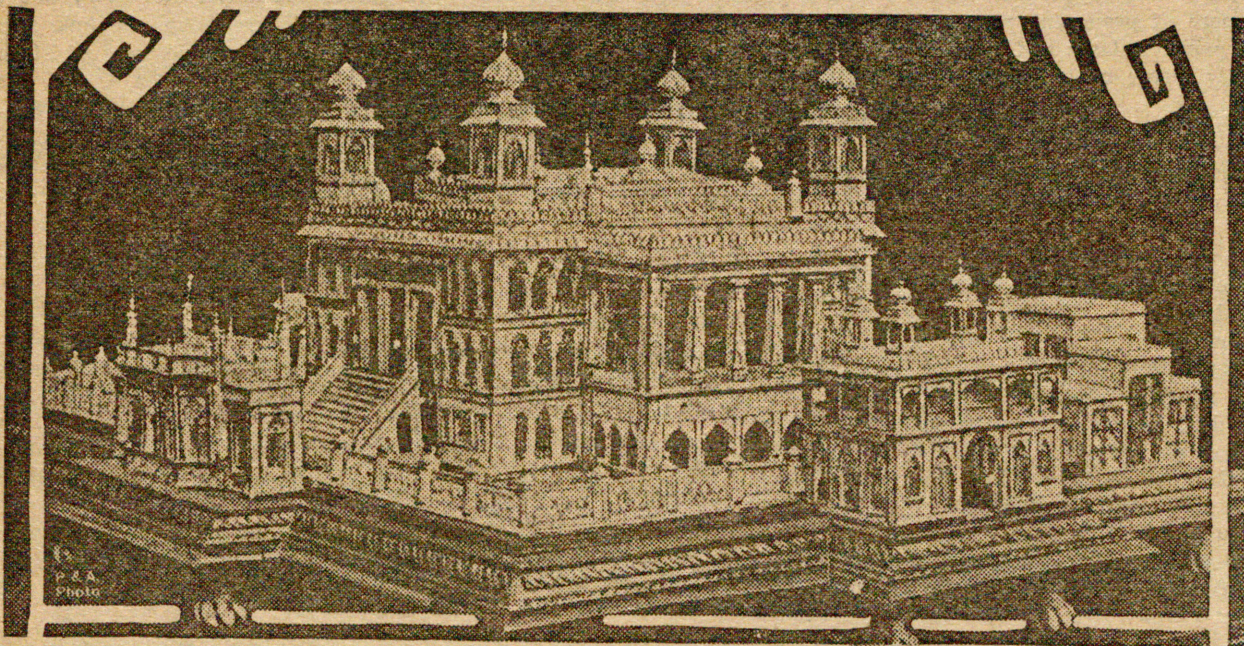

The net result of these rate changes will be a saving to the telephone users of the United States of approximately $3,000,000 a year. The service changes are made in the interests of public convenience, to relieve the burden now imposed by the congestion of business at midnight and to furnish still better long distance service.

*Application has been filed by the Company with the Illinois Commerce Commission to make the same changes in rates between Illinois points. Notice will be given to the Company's subscribers when and if such rates become effective.

Women have ventured into many fields in the business world, but Miss Golda A. Fossett is said to have the distinction of being the only one of her sex at the helm of a national live stock exposition. Hog men throughout the country agree that she is "boss of the show."

Rich Embroidered "Coolie" Coat; School Dress of Woolen Plaid

FROM the extreme of simplicity, the world of fashion is turning its attention to modes of more sophisticated type. This fact is being verified through the first showings of autumn and winter-style collections. Every detail of the newer costumes shows it, from our hats, which are being more elaborately created every minute, to our shoes, which are taking on a superlateness. And as to jewelry! Barbaric splendor marks the ear pen-

Wonder if little folks realize what a furore of excitement they are stirring up in fashion circles, just about now. And all because "first day of school" is at hand and oh me, oh my, what heaps of good-looking clothes it is going to require for the weeks and months to follow.

One thing is encouraging, the new bright plaid flannels, said to be in the very top notch of fashion, are certainly going to do a powerful bit in

dants, necklaces and "slave" bracelets which fashion dangles before us.

In the creation of our lingerie and negligees, frocks and wraps and overblouse tunics, it would seem, as if not only fabric elegance was never so accentuated, but as if the artcraft of every nation had been called upon for its best and most beautiful specimens of handiwork.

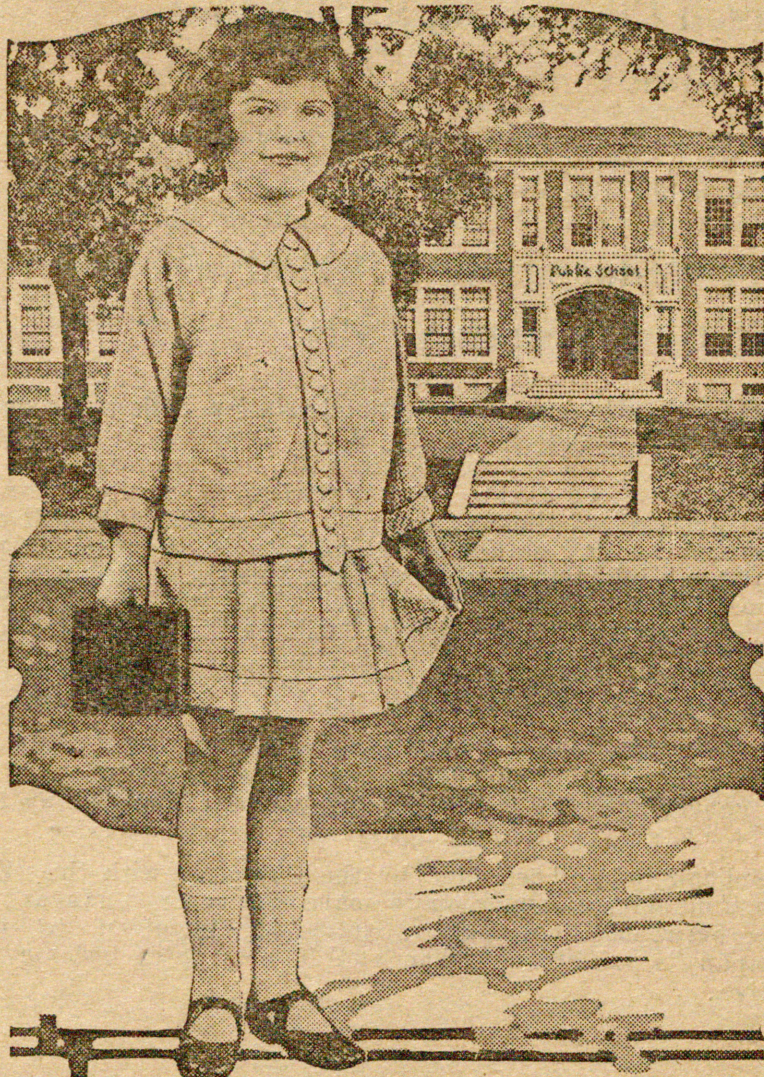

One of the most interesting departures into the realm of embroidered garments is the coolie coat, such as shown in the picture. Its uses are versatile. While it serves admirably as a handsome "at home" negligee, if a lady chooses to call upon it to play the part of an opera wrap de luxe, it will yield most gracefully to the occasion. These beautiful oriental garments are styled of rich satin canton and are to be had in exquisite colorings both dark and light, with a preference for black.

No less beautiful than the embroideries from oriental countries are the brilliant shawls from sunny Spain.

With materials decided upon, the next move is for "ideas." It is going to be no trick at all to find them this season. Why this season any more than any other? Well, just this. We are going to borrow them from the grown-ups. In other words fashion decrees that little folks' frocks adapt the style details of adult mode in belts, vestees, collars and in other various ways. Of course they must be changed sufficiently to effect the simplicity of childhood, and the latest juvenile style displays assure that this is being successfully accomplished.

One of the details which will feature children's frocks will be belts of leather or self-fabric on both one and two-piece models. The new plaid dresses are of very smart appearance when accompanied by a narrow gilded leather belt. And are the children going to like to wear these new silver or gold kid belts with a sure-enough Child's Frock Simple, but Pleasing.

These are finding place in the wardrobe of the majority of women of fashion. If not a mammoth square silken shawl, at least a wide evening scarf embroidered and befringed a la Espagnole.

Perhaps the most unique application of native embroidery themes is finding expression in the new separate tunic blouse, which is vivaciously colorful and is expected to be worn over a velvet skirt made in tiers scalloped or plain. These striking tunics are of fascinating styling in that sleeves, front openings and necklines show artful needlecraft of mayhap Spanish, Japanese, Chinese, Russian or Czechoslovakian inspiration.

buckle? Ask the first little girl you meet.

Oh, yes! about the new sleeves, some of them will have wrist ties as a sleeve finish, just like mother and big sister wear. Then, too, there will be little vestees studded with rows of tiny buttons, if you please, and scarf collars and oh! just too many new "wrinkles" to enumerate in the limits of this article.

In regard to the plaid dress here pictured, note the turnover collar, the blouse effect, the buttons and the piping of contrasting color—all important style details.

Sound Waves

The bureau of standards says there are two methods by which sound waves may be neutralized, namely, by interference two waves are combined in such a way as to produce silence. It is necessary in doing this to have both sources of sound coupled in some way. This method, however, could not be used to neutralize a sound the source of which is not under control. The other method of neutralizing sound waves, by absorption, is simply a question of interposing suitable screens of sound-absorbing material. Hair felt is the best sound deadener so far discovered.

People Are Learning the Value of Occasional Use.

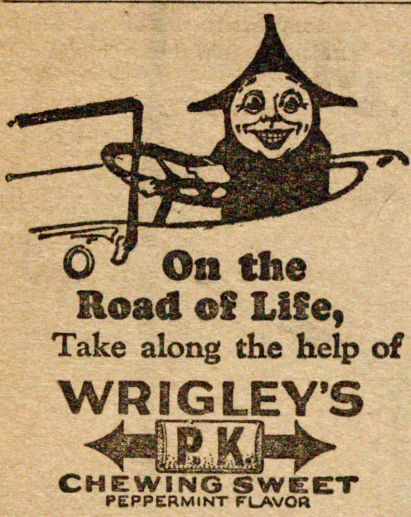

EVERYONE knows that a laxative stimulates the bowels. A diuretic performs a similar function to the kidneys. Chapter VII—Continued

—14—

With her wet clothes clinging to her tightly, she was like a slim shadow as she crossed the soggy open and buried herself among the forest trees. Baree still followed. She went straight to a birch-tree that she had located that day and began tearing off the loose bark. An armful of this bark she carried close to the wigwam, and on it she heaped load after load of wet wood until she had a great pile. From a bottle in the wigwam she secured a dry match, and at the first touch of its tiny flame the birch-bark flared up like paper soaked in oil. Not until it was blazing a dozen feet into the air did she cease putting wood on it. Then she drove sticks into the soft ground and over these sticks stretched the blanket out to dry. After that she began to undress.

The rain had cooled the air, and the tonic of it—laden with the breath of the balsam and spruce—set the Willow's blood dancing in her veins. She forgot the Factor from Lac Bain, and what Pierrot had told her. She danced about Baree, tossing her sea of hair about her, her naked body shimmering in and out of it, her eyes aglow, her lips laughing in her un-reasoning happiness—the happiness of being alive, of drinking into her lungs the perfumed air of the forest, of seeing the stars and the wonderful sky above her. She stopped before Baree and cried laughingly at him, holding out her arms:

"Ahe, Baree—if you could only throw off your skin as easily as I have thrown off my clothes!"

She drew a deep breath, and her eyes shone with a sudden inspiration.
Slowly her mouth formed into a round O, and leaning still nearer to Baree, she whispered:

"It will be deep—and sweet tonight.
Ninga—yes—we will go!"

She called to him softly as she slipped on her wet moccasins and followed the creek into the forest. A hundred yards from the open she came to the edge of a pool. It was deep and full tonight, three times as big as it had been before the storm.
She could hear the gurgle and inrush of water. On its ruffled surface the stars shone. For a moment or two she stood poised on a rock with the cool depths half a dozen feet below her.
Then she flung back her hair and shot like a slim white arrow through the starlight.

Baree saw her go. He heard the plunge of her body. For half an hour he lay flat and still, close to the edge of the pool, and watched her. Once she was gone a long time. He whined.
He knew she was not like the beaver and the otter, and he was filled with an immense relief when she came up.

So their first night passed—storm, the cool, deep pool, the big fire; and later, when the Willow's clothes and the blanket had dried, a few hours' sleep. At dawn they returned to the cabin. It was a cautious approach.
There was no smoke coming from the chimney. The door was closed. Pier-rot and Bush McTaggart were gone.

Chapter VIII

It was the beginning of August—the Flying-up Moon—when Pierrot returned from Lac Bain, and in three days more it would be the Willow's seventeenth birthday. He brought back with him many things for Nepeese—ribbons for her hair, real shoes, which she wore at times like the two English women at Nelson House, and chief glory of all, some wonderful red cloth for a dress. In the three winters she had spent at the Mission these women had made much of Nepeese. They had taught her to sew as well as to spell and read and pray, and at times there came to the Willow a compelling desire to do as they did.

So for three days Nepeese worked hard on her new dress and on her birthday she stood before Pierrot in a fashion that took his breath away.
She had piled her hair in great glowing masses and coils on the crown of her head, as Yvonne, the younger of the English women, had taught her, and in the rich jet of it had half buried a vivid sprig of the crimson fire-flower. Under this, and the glow in her eyes, and the red flush of her lips and cheeks came the wonderful red dress, fitted to the slim and sin-uous beauty of her form—as the style had been two winters ago at Nelson House. And under the dress, which reached just below the knees—Nepeese had quite forgotten the proper length, or else her material had run out—came the coup de maître of her toilet, real stockings and the wonderful shoes with high heels! She was a vision before which the gods of the forest might have felt their hearts stop beating. Pierrot turned her round and round without a word, but simling; but when she left him, followed by Baree, and limping a little in the tightness of her shoes, the smile faded from his face, leaving it cold and staring.

"Mon Dieu," he whispered to himself in French, with a thought that was like a sharp stab at his heart, "she is not of her mother's blood—non. It is French. She is—yes—like an angel."

There was a change in Pierrot.
During the three days of her dressmaking Nepeese had been quite too excited to notice this change, and Pierrot had tried to keep it from her.
He had been away ten days on the trip to Lac Bain, and he brought back to Nepeese the joyous news that M'sieu McTaggart was very sick with pechipo— the blood poison—news that made the Willow clap her hands and laugh happily. But he knew that the Factor would get well, and that he would come again to their cabin on the Gray Loon. And when next time he came—

It was when he was thinking of this that his face grew cold and hard, and his eyes burned. And he was thinking of it on this her birthday, even as her laughter floated to him like a song. Dieu, in spite of her seventeen years, she was nothing but a child—a baby! She could not guess his horrible visions. And the dread of awakening her for all time from that beautiful childhood kept him from

"I Am Not Going, Mon Pere!"

telling her the whole truth so that she might have understood fully and completely. Non, it should not be that. His soul beat with a great and gentle love. He, Pierrot De Quesne, would do the watching. And she should laugh and sing and play—and have no share in the black forebodings that had come to spoil his life.

On this day there came up from the south MacDonald, the government map-maker. He was gray and grizzled, with a great, free laugh and a clean heart. Two days he remained with Pierrot. He told Nepeese of his daughters at home, of their mother, whom he worshipped more than anything else on earth—and before he went on in his quest of the last timber line of Banksian pine, he took pictures of the Willow as he had first seen her on her birthday: her hair piled in glossy coils and masses, her red dress, the high-heeled shoes. He carried the negatives on with him, promising Pierrot that he would get a picture back in some way. Thus fate works in its strange and apparently innocent ways as it spins its webs of tragedy.

For many weeks after this there followed tranquil days on the Gray Loon. They were wonderful days for Brains Minor Factor in Financial Success

If you set out in this world to make money, your success will depend more on your personality than on intelligence or ability as a scholar. And a sense of humor won't help you so very much, either.

What you will need to stock up on are the traits usually displayed in abundance by self-made men of so many "success" stories; aggressivness, enthusiasm, accuracy in work, and self-reliance.

A study of the mathematical relation between personality and income has been made at Purdue university, and the traits that go hand in hand with money making are listed in order of their importance. Typical college men, who were graduated from engi-Baree. At first he was suspicious of Pierrot. After a little he tolerated him, and at last accepted him as a part of the cabin—and Nepeese. It was the Willow whose shadow he became. Pierrot noted the attachment with the deepest satisfaction.

"Ah, in a few months more, if he should leap at the throat of M'sieu the Factor," he said to himself one day.

In September, when he was six months old, Baree was almost as large as Gray Wolf—big-boned, long-fanged, with a deep chest, and jaws that could already crack a bone as if it were a stick. He was with Nepeese whenever and wherever she moved.

It was late in August when Baree saw the first of his kind outside of Kazan and Gray Wolf. During the summer Pierrot allowed his dogs to run at large on a small island in the center of a lake two or three miles away, and twice a week he netted fish for them. On one of these trips Nepeese accompanied him and took Baree with her. Pierrot carried his long caribou-gut whip. He expected a fight. But there was none. Baree joined the pack in their rush for fish, and ate with them. This pleased Pierrot more than ever.

"He will make a great sledge-dog," he chuckled. "It is best to leave him for a week with the pack, ma Nepeese."

Reluctantly Nepeese gave her consent. While the dogs were still at their fish, they started homeward.
Their canoe had stolen well out before Baree discovered the trick they had played on him. Instantly he leaped into the water and swam after them—and the Willow helped him into the canoe.

Early in September a passing Indian brought Pierrot word of Bush McTaggart. The Factor had been very sick. He had almost died from the blood poison, but he was well now.
With the first exhilarating tang of autumn in the air a new dread oppressed Pierrot. But at present he said nothing of what was in his mind to Nepeese. The Willow had almost forgotten the Factor from Lac Bain, for the glory and thrill of wilderness autumn was in her blood.

Most of Nepeese's hours she spent in training Baree for the sledge. She began with a babiche string and a stick. It was a whole day before she could induce Baree to drag this stick without turning at every other step to snap and growl at it. Then she fastened another length of babiche to him, and made him drag two sticks.
Thus little by little she trained him to the sledge-harness, until at the end of a fortnight he was tugging heroically at anything she had a mind to fasten to him. Pierrot brought home two of the dogs from the island, and Baree was put into training with these, and helped to drag the empty sledge. Nepeese was delighted. On the day the first light snow fell she clapped her hands and cried to Pierrot:

"By midwinter I will have him the finest dog in the pack, mon pere!"

This was the time for Pierrot to say what was in his mind. He smiled.
Dianthe—would not that beast the Factor fall into the very devil of a rage when he found how he had been cheated! And yet—

He tried to make his voice quiet and commonplace.

"I am going to send you down to the school at Nelson House again this winter, ma chere," he said. "Baree will help draw you down on the first good snow."

The Willow was tying a knot in Baree's babiche, and she rose slowly to her feet and looked at Pierrot.

"I am not going, mon pere!"

It was the first time Nepeese had ever said that to Pierrot—in just that way. It thrilled him. And he could scarcely face the look in her eyes. He was not good at bluffing. Nepeese did not wait for him to gather speech.

"I am not going!" she repeated with even greater finality, and bent again over Baree.

With a shrug of his shoulders Pier-rot watched her. After all, was he not glad? Would his heart not have turned sick if she had been happy at the thought of leaving him? He moved to her side and with great gentleness laid a hand on her glossy smile. Up from under it the Willow smiled at him. Between them they heard the click of Baree's jaws as he rested his muzzle on the Willow's arm.
For the first time in weeks the world seemed suddenly filled with sunshine for Pierrot. When he went back to the cabin he held his head higher. Nepeese would not leave him! He laughed softly. He rubbed his hands together. His fear of the Factor from Lac Bain was gone. From the cabin door he looked back at Nepeese and Baree.

"The saints be blessed!" he murmured. "Now—now—it is Pierrot Du Quesne who knows what to do!"

Decapitation Adds to Insects' Lives

At a recent session of the Academy of Science-Professor Bouvier read a curious paper written by R. P. Cambounet, noted entomologist and for many years a missionary in Madagascar. The purport of the paper was to the effect that the lives of butterflies could be prolonged by cutting their heads off in such a way as to avoid a hemorrhage—an operation which, it would appear, can be performed by an expert.

Cambounet declares that he has tried the experiment successfully with eighty butterflies and that his patients —if that is the word—not only retained "all their faculties and were able to reproduce their species, but the average span of their lives in every case was prolonged by from one to two weeks."

Decapitation as a means of prolonging life! What do the many clients of Monsieur Deibler (the guillotine) think of this?—From Le Petit Parisien.

CHRIST LUTH. CHURCH NOTES

The annual mission festival celebrated on Sept. 5th was a success altho it had rained all afternoon. In the afternoon the Rev. Sauer or Herscher preached in German and in the evening the Rev. H. Hartman in English. The envelopes to date show that the congregation is taking a lively interest in Mission work. Next Sunday there will be English services at 10:00 a. m. and Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Sept. 12th at 10 a. m. English services. Sunday school at 9 a. m. Sept. 19th German services at the 10 a. m. hour. Sept. 26th English services at 10 a. m. Sunday School at the 9 a. m. on both of the last named Sundays.

Mr. Steinmetz who was taken to the St. Bernard hospital on Monday was in a very serious condition. Wm. Raney who was taken to St. Francis hospital, Blue Island on Monday was brought home Friday. His condition is very satisfactory.

On Thursday the old Ford of the late Chas. Paul was purchased by two young men and on Thursday evening the Ford of the vintage of 1912 was wrecked on Kean Ave. We are unable to say how it happened.

Mr. Peter Hostert bemoans the loss of two 350 lbs. hogs. Some one thought that the price of hog meat was too high and helped himself. It is about time that the State organize some sort of protection for the country districts, modeled after the constabulary of Pennsylvania or New York, who regularly patrol the country roads and who are on the job watching for these marauders. It is also said that there are many chicken thieves roaming the countryside. Will it be necessary for the farmers to organize a vigilance committee and thus protect themselves?

The contractors are busy concreting 135th St. The bridge on Harlem Ave. and 135th Sts., has been completed. 127th St., is finished excepting the short stretch over the drainage canal bridge.

Mr. Scott is busy cleaning up his new lot which he purchased in the Orland Park Highland subdivision, preparatory to erecting a 6 room bungalow. It is also reported that Chas. Hachlein has purchased 2 lots in this subdivision and will soon erect houses upon them.

Monday, Labor Day, many fans went out to the Orland Diamond to see their boys bring home the bacon, but sad to say the opposing team did not show up. So what to do? The single men on the Orland team had a peculiar idea, that they could lick the married men at base ball. But oh, what a disappointment was theirs. The married men may seem stiff and dried up, but on Labor Day, they were everything, but me thinks, it was because they did not help with the family washing. After the smoke of battle had cleared away, the married men all were able to buy their wives a good box of candy. (Do it oftener boys). The score was 4 to 1 in favor of the married ones, which goes to show what married life will do. Lee White was looking all over the field for a sheet or something to cover a part of his body which had become exposed by sliding home. Following was the line up:

Married Men: Koehler, ss; H. Utne, 2nd base; Ed. Rust, 1; Doc. Nicolai, c; Lee White, 3rd base; Hachlein, 1st base; G. Yunker, rf; M. Utne, cf; Decker Kay, p. Single Men: Connolly, 3rd base; W. Kraemer, 1st base; Ludwig, lf; Feery, ss; Seyferth, p; Moore, c; Rip Kraemer, 2nd base; L. Nicolai, cf; L. Habenicht, rf; Score: Married men: 4. 5. 3. Single Men: 1. 6. 2

All told it was a very good fast game. Deck Kay no doubt will be carrying his arm in a sling, because he pitched with his old time form and had them curving over the plate in grand fashion. The Umpires were so fair, that not once was there a dispute about their decision. Umpires were Buek Nicolai and Hicks. Long will this game be remembered and no doubt will go down in the annals of baseball as one of the feature games of all times. The single men, however, are not satisfied and they think they can beat their opponents in another game.

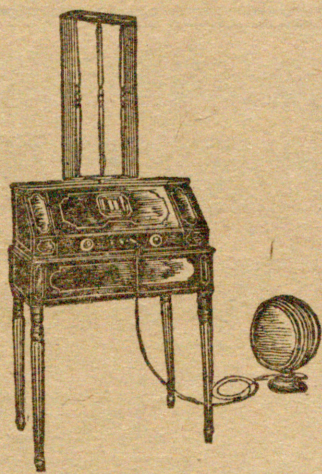

Mr. Chas. Stortz is driving a new Dodge sedan.

Invitations are issued for the wedding of Miss Edna Braasch, daughter of Wm. Braasch of Orland, and Mr. Mather of Lemont, which will take place in Christ Lutheran church Sept. 18th.
